1. What BoldLine builds

BoldLine will design, write and build a website for Client with five pages: Home, Services, About, Reviews and Contact (the “Website”). Client chooses one of the designs BoldLine offers. The Website works on phones, tablets and computers, and its contact form sends enquiries to Client.

BoldLine writes the words from what Client tells it about the business. Client reviews them before launch and is responsible for confirming they are accurate. BoldLine will not state facts about Client’s business that Client has not given it.

2. What Client provides

Client will provide the information BoldLine reasonably asks for, its logo if it has one, and photos of its own work and team where it can. Until Client’s own photos are provided, BoldLine may use licensed stock photos, which will never be presented as Client’s own work. Client confirms it has the right to use everything it provides, and that the Website may display it.

3. Price and payment

The Build Fee is paid in two parts: $750 when this Agreement is signed, and $750 when the Website is finished and before it goes live. Work starts when the first payment is received. The Website will not be published until the second payment is received.

Payments are made by card or bank transfer through a secure invoice from BoldLine's payment processor, and are due within seven (7) days of the invoice. Once BoldLine has started work, payments already made are not refunded, except as set out in section 5.

4. Changes before launch

Two rounds of changes before launch are included. A round is one list of changes sent together. New pages, a different design after work has started, or changes beyond two rounds are quoted separately and only done if Client agrees to the quote in writing.

Setting up, and later changing, how customers reach Client through the website (a quote form, online booking, a link to a booking system Client already uses, or calling) is part of the build and the care plan. It never counts as a round of changes and is never charged separately.

The same goes for how Client's customers pay through the website: connecting Client's own Stripe or Square account, a payment link from Client's own account, or payment in person. Every such payment goes straight from the customer to Client's own account. Client is the seller, and refunds, chargebacks, processing fees and any taxes on those sales are Client's. BoldLine never receives, holds or handles that money, takes no share of it, and Client may disconnect its account at any time.

5. Timing

BoldLine aims to have a first version ready for Client to review within fourteen (14) days of receiving the first payment and the information it needs. If BoldLine has not delivered a first version within sixty (60) days of receiving both, Client may end this Agreement by written notice and receive a refund of the Build Fee paid.

If Client does not respond to BoldLine for sixty (60) days in a row while the Website is being built, BoldLine may close the project by written notice. Payments already made are not refunded, and nothing further is owed for the build.

6. Going live and the domain

When the Website is finished, paid for in full and approved by Client, BoldLine will publish it on Client's domain name. Client owns its domain name and keeps it registered in its own name, at its own cost. If Client does not have one, BoldLine will help Client register one in Client's name.

BoldLine manages the domain's settings for Client, so Client does not need anyone else to look after the Website. To do this, Client will give BoldLine access to the account where the domain is registered, limited to managing its settings where the provider allows it, for as long as BoldLine hosts the Website. BoldLine will use that access only to connect the domain to the Website and keep it working. Without Client's written approval (email is fine), BoldLine will not transfer the domain, change who owns it, cancel it, or change the settings Client's email depends on. Keeping the domain renewed and paid for remains Client's responsibility.

The domain and the account stay Client's at all times, and Client may remove BoldLine's access whenever it chooses. While BoldLine hosts the Website, removing that access or changing those settings may stop the Website working on the domain, which will not be a breach by BoldLine. When BoldLine stops hosting the Website, it will stop using the access, and on request will tell Client exactly which settings it made so they can be pointed wherever Client chooses. This does not depend on any amount being owed.

7. The Care Plan

The Care Plan costs $100 per month. It starts on the day the Website goes live and is billed monthly in advance.

The Care Plan covers hosting, security updates, keeping the Website online, and up to two small content changes per month (for example text, photos, hours or prices). Larger changes are quoted separately. Client may cancel the Care Plan at any time with thirty (30) days' written notice. If a Care Plan invoice is unpaid fifteen (15) days after its due date, BoldLine may take the Website offline until it is paid.

8. Who owns what

Once the Build Fee is paid in full, Client owns the words written for the Website, and always owns its own name, logo, photos, content and domain. BoldLine keeps ownership of its design templates, code and tools, and grants Client a license to use them as part of the Website. If the Care Plan ends, and once everything owed has been paid, BoldLine will on request provide a copy of the Website's pages and images as standard web files, which Client may host anywhere and keep using.

9. No guarantees about results

BoldLine will build the Website with care and skill. BoldLine does not guarantee any particular search ranking, number of visitors, enquiries or sales, and is not responsible for services it does not control, such as domain registrars, search engines, email providers or Client's own systems.

10. Limit of liability

Neither party is liable for indirect or consequential losses, including lost profits. BoldLine's total liability under this Agreement is limited to the amounts Client paid BoldLine under it in the twelve (12) months before the claim.

11. Other services

This Agreement covers the Website only. Any advertising or other service BoldLine provides is covered by its own agreement, and ending one does not end the other.

12. Law and disputes

This Agreement is governed by the laws of the State of Arizona. The parties will first try in good faith to settle any dispute by talking for thirty (30) days after written notice. Any dispute not settled that way will be decided by binding arbitration administered by the American Arbitration Association under its Commercial Arbitration Rules, by one arbitrator, seated in Arizona, with remote hearings available. Either party may bring an individual claim in small claims court instead.

13. General

This is the entire agreement about the Website. Changes must be in writing and agreed by both parties, which may be by email. If any part is unenforceable, the rest still applies. Notices may be sent by email to the addresses above. The parties agree this Agreement may be signed electronically, including through DocuSign, and that electronic signatures are valid and binding under the U.S. E-SIGN Act and the Arizona Electronic Transactions Act.
